EXPRESSIONS '81

STYLUS

WINDBER AREA HIGH SCHOOL

WINDBER, PENNSYLVANIA

To help someone is an expression of understanding. To trust someone is a result of true friendship. A deep and loving concern stems from the heart.

During the years spent in school, we have all experienced feelings such as these, whether we felt them alone or as part of a group. Fear, pain, despair, envy, and indecision have appeared: however, courage, happiness, hope, and love have overshadowed. By dealing with these emotions, our ability to express ourselves has grown.

We hope to display this growth in this yearbook — a yearbook to help us remember in future years. In that way, feelings that were once so strong and expressive, that were once so meaningful, shall not be forgotten.

Susan Bossi

The year preceeding Commencement has left us with many memories and much knowledge. It is important to realize that all of the lessons we have learned are not found in books. Much of it came from within ourselves.

Senior year impressions form the basis of our high school recollections. Memorable times spent with classmates are often relived and can bring both joy and sorrow. Together we explored our surroundings, our mental and physical limits and our ability to affect others in a positive way.

We took advantage of this, our last chance to be together, to make new friends and secure old ones, to laugh, cry, or just talk, and to share secrets, dreams and deep feelings for one another. The senior year takes forever to arrive and slips away all too soon. It is treasured memoirs, such as those that follow, that will make us eternally young in our hearts.

And so, "Class of '81", here are our memories . . .

Wendy Hollern

Nineteen Hundred and Eighty-One . . . To us, that year will always be especially meaningful. For it marked our passage into young adulthood. It was the year our class grew close as we realized our differences were not irreconcilable. And, yes, it was the year each of us was granted a diploma along with the right to use our own judgement in the continuation of our lives.

Dena Delorie and Diane Smith

Graduation is our dividend for the investment of 12 long, difficult years filled with evident and intangible growth. For some it is the realization of a long-awaited dream. For others it is only the first step toward an ultimate goal. Either way, the members of the Class of 1981 can take pride in their accomplishments. What was once a vision is now a revelation and what was then will never be again.

With each passing year, our high school memories may fade slightly. But, at the same time, our aims are becoming clearer and getting closer to being within reach. We must trust in ourselves to face the future boldly and with conviction, whatever it may bring. We should strive for individuality while seeking to contribute to society. May we look to exceed our expectations of the future.

Finally, we wish for ourselves and each other enrichment, success and happiness.

SPORTS

Waiting for the big break.

Kris Elias

There is a great interest for sports at our high school. Throughout the school, most of the students are involved in sports. Their involvement; however, is not only through participation. Many students enjoy watching the games and keeping track of their team's record. For those who do participate in a sport, this sport occupies much of their time and physical effort. It is their dedication to their team plus support from other students and townspeople that can make it a winning one.

The coach's favorite back-scratcher.

What appeared to be a promising year for our Ramblers turned out to be a most disappointing season. It was a year that one could categorize as the year of the injured.

As early as summer football camp the injuries to our athletes began to plague the Ramblers.

Before the first game the starting lineup was already being shuffled and inexperienced players were being placed throughout the lineup. The lack of depth was beginning to show itself. At the season opener with Vo-tech, the Ramblers were stunned, 27-7. Some experienced players were injured in this season opener and prospects for the season appeared bleak.

Windber then traveled to Ebensburg to take on the tough Huskies of Bishop Carroll and lost 28-7.

All hopes were not lost as the guys prepared for traditional rival Richland. But once again the experience was apparent — Richland 30 — Ramblers 0.

The injuries began to pile up as the Ramblers' key positions had to be substituted with young players. But our brave Ramblers continued under great pressure and criticism.

As the season progressed, the valiant Ramblers showed great courage and determination but still could not pull off a win. At one point in the season, with all the costly injuries, and the team down to only nineteen players, consideration was given to canceling the remainder of the season. But once again the players and coaches courageously voted to finish out the season.

The Ramblers closed the season with losses to the undefeated Forest Hills' Rangers and the once beaten North Star Cougars.

A most disappointing season indeed but we pay tribute to our players who showed courage and sportsmanship as superb athletes.

The girls Varsity Basketball season began August 29. Their record was 10 wins and 4 losses. Mostly their thanks goes to Coach Visnovsky and assistant coach Missy Hoffer for the help and support. Although the season has ended, the team will be competing in playoffs in Class A in February. Out of seven lettermen six will be returning next year. The team will lose Cathy Verostick, the only senior that was on the team this year. The feeling among these returning Juniors is that they can improve their record next year.

Our team began this year's basketball season with an optimistic outlook for a winning season. The starting five were: Kevin Weaver, as center, Ken Petro and Jim Petrilla as forwards, and Matt Conjelko and Gary Ursino as guards. Their first victory, a close game, was a home game against Berlin. The next match was against Somerset, what seemed to be a difficult match turned out to be a rather enjoyable contest for our winning team. The Cagers then traveled to Westmont where they won by a slim margin, with the problem being the Hilltop center. Then came an agonizing defeat at Bedford. This loss, that came in the final minutes of play, crushed hopes for an undefeated season. The next game, however, the Ramblers humiliated Central, with junior varsity entering the game in the third quarter. The two consective games that followed were against Penn Cambria, and proved to be very close and physical. At our home game, our team lost by one point, with a fight breaking out in the final seconds. At the away game, our team won at the sound of the buzzer. On December 26 and 27 the annual Rotary Tournament was held. Our boys won the first night but lost the second. The next four games were victories against Somerset, Vo-Tech, Bishop Carrol, and Central Cambria. This last game, a strong second half put our team's score over the one hundred mark. A third defeat against Richland was then followed by a victory over Cambria Heights. At the Forest Hills game, Jim Petrilla made a half-court shot that put the game into overtime, but unfortunately, our team was defeated. In the next game, they were up against Westmont for the second time and stopped the Hilltopper's center, winning the game. The next two games that were played proved to be victories for the Ramblers. These games were against Cambria Heights and Vo-Tech.

That's our Rambler Power Company!

Practice, games and more practice makes up a cheerleaders life. A bond, like one that bonds a family, is formed. Everything that is done is done together. Yet to get it done together and right, everyone has to put forth and when everyone does, the result is really worth it!

From May till March, cheerleading comes above the very basic essentials of life. You eat supper on the bus on the way to the game and do your homework at half-time. Different from many sports, cheerleading is a year long activity. When not at a game or practice, usually you can find a cheerleader making posters or planning pep rallies. A lot more goes on behind the scenes than what is actually seen in the final product.

Through it all, though, the relationships, the joys, and the tears that are shared with fellow cheerleaders are unique and an experience we will never forget.

The thrill of victory!

The 1980-81 school year proved to be a very rewarding one for the Jr. High Cheerleaders. They were the first Jr. High squad from Windber to attend the Nationwide Cheerleading Association at Indiana University. By means of several fund raising activities throughout the summer, they purchased new uniforms, pom pons, and jackets. The squad cheered their Jr. High Football team on to a 2-4 season. They also were behind the girls and boys basketball teams. Their long, hard practices and dedicated advisors payed off as they took 1st place honors in the Cambria County War Memorial Cheerleading Contest with the cheer "Rambler Race."

A Varsity W Club was established in school this year. This club is mainly made up of senior high students who are active in clubs that compete with clubs from other schools: however, many requirements for membership were set by members of the "cabinet". This cabinet consists of representatives from various clubs and the officers. Although this club is new, it has been involved in many activities. For example, a store within the school is run by its members. In addition, they have had various sales and have held an informal dance in the gym after a basketball game.

Chris takes us to "The Land of Make Believe"
(Chris Hunter)

In the past year, many changes have taken place within the Senior High Band. The most significant was the acquiring of a new band director, Mr. Mannella. At first, it was difficult to become accustomed to his style of direction and his discipline. In fact, many members will never forget the laps around the practice field or the morning callisthenics at band camp.

Many practices were held throughout the summer to prepare for these two weeks of camp in August. These practices made it possible for members to get better acquainted with their new director and also got them ready to perform. The first performance under the direction of Mr. Mannella was the Fourth of July parade through town. Two other parades in July, one in Central City and one in Conemaugh, won first place awards for the W.A.H.S. marching band.

Soon after these wins, band camp began. It took long hours of hard work; but, by the time football season began, the band had prepared their half-time show: and, throughout the season, was always there to cheer on the team and to supply fans with entertainment.

Entertainment, however, was not their only goal. On Sept. 13, the band traveled to Pitt Stadium to perform at half-time of the Boston-vs-Pitt game, helping the band to build up their reputation. Following this performance, they competed in two field competitions. The band captured first place and, in addition, won trophies for best drum-major and best percussion. On Oct. 11, the band returned to Greensburg-Salem. They competed in Class AA with bigger bands, but still managed to place 2nd, with the award for best drum-major going to Tony Trovato.

Although the band activities for the twenty-four seniors ended on Senior recognition night at the last game, the memories of what they have experienced and what they have felt in band will remain with every member. They will always remember the laughter on the buses, the hugs for good luck, the tears of disappointment, the tears of happiness, the excitement of winning; and above all, the togetherness felt among everyone — including the staff and the band boosters. Without their help, the band could never exist. With their understanding and concern, the Windber High School Band has proved that their feeling of "Spirit and Excellence" will hold their program together.

In Junior High band, the fundamental skills of music learned in elementary band are mastered and marching skills are introduced. This year, the spirit and pride of these underclassmen has grown. When asked about the group, Mr. Mannella replied, "The group has come a long way this year and I feel that their level of playing has increased tremendously."

Extracurricular activities are a special part of one's life during high school. These activities are important to students for many reasons. For instance, they may provide challenges and excitement. They may also give students a chance to get their mind off their studies. Lastly, they may be a way of making new friends or of spending times with the friends one already has. For whatever reason, students are given the opportunity to learn new things by joining clubs or by participating in school events. In these activities, many feelings begin to surface. These feelings may be of fear in meeting challenges or the excitement of victory. The way to express these emotions can be learned by being placed in such situations. Through these activities, students are given the chance to grow as persons.

A Western theme surrounded homecoming festivities this year. The events included a western dress-up day during school, an in school pep rally, an outside dance, and floats constructed by students from each grade circled the football field during half-time of the game between Windber's Ramblers and the Conemaugh Township Indians. Unfortunately this was one of the times when the Indians defeated the Cowboys.

Although none of us can completely understand the physical and mental anguish experienced by the fifty-two hostages who were held captive in Iran for four hundred and forty four days, it seems very fitting for us to honor and respect them for their loyalty and their bravery. It is for this reason that the school body held a service in celebration of their return. This program consisted of many distinguished guests and members of the community who gave thanks for the hostage's safe return and also mourned the eight servicemen who gave their lives in an attempt to free them.

Underclassmen are an important part of the school body. As seniors, we must not forget this. Instead, we must serve as an example for them. For, they too will be seniors in time. Some of the younger students may see graduation as a day that will never come. However, that day will come much sooner than they realize. Looking back, it is hard for us to understand why, as seventh graders, we felt as if we would be in high school forever. Now, it seems as if we were here for only a short while. The time spent in high school is short. This makes the activities of underclassmen important.

The underclassmen participate in many activities. The seventh and eighth grade classes hold skating parties each year. Thr freshmen class holds a dance. The sophomores have a dance with a court, selecting a King and Queen. Lastly, the juniors sponsor the Junior-Senior prom. The planning for this prom is done by the junior class council.

Are you sure that's it? (Shari Zeigler, Tammy Kinzey)

These events are a small, but important part of being underclassmen. They, along with the education one receives, prepare students for the day when they will graduate. As seniors, we see that day getting closer and closer. Our days in high school, however, will not end with commencement. We will relive these days in our minds throughout the years to come. This is why students should take full advantage of the opportunities they have as underclassmen.

Off to another battle

Dorothy Kmetz, Secretary

Over five years ago when we entered into high school as 7th graders, we may not have admitted it, but many of us were frightened by teachers as well as the administration. To us they seemed to be impersonal and distant, and we were unsure of our ability to meet their expectations. This made it hard for us to be ourselves. However, once we got acquainted with the school, we became more familiar with faces of teachers and administration. In fact they began to recognize us as individual students rather than just another class. The way was then opened to more amiable relationships within the school. These relationships began to grow as time gradually passed. Throughout our years as students at Windber, the faculty and the administration have helped us tremendously. Being confident in our abilities, they gave us extra help and praise to build confidence in ourselves. A great amount of help was also given for extracurricular activities. For example, teachers and administration have chaperoned skating parties and dances, have attended sports events, and have shamelessly participated in pep rallies. These are just a few illustrations of things that were done for our benefit. Therefore, as members of the class of 1981, we will always remember these fine people who have helped and inspired us at this point in our lives, and we are grateful for the education and counseling we have received.

For better homes and schools! (Irvin Berkey)

The schoolboard is an important part of our school's system of education. Each of its members has to meet a great responsibility. This responsibility is in making all decisions on behalf of the students best interests. Their decisions determine how the school will function.

Peggy Hoffer, Assistant Secretary

At a schoolboard meeting, a variety of subjects are discussed: long and short range plans are made, employees are selected, resignation are accepted, administration is organized, and programs and committees are established. A great amount of time and thought is given to these topics. At their monthly meetings, schoolboard members must act in not only the interests of the students, but also in those of the community. Therefore, thanks and appreciation should go to this organization of concerned men for all of their efforts.

LOVING MEMORIES

Your gentle face and patient smile
With sadness we recall
You had a kindly word for each
And died beloved by all.

The voice is mute and stilled the heart,
That loved us well and true.
Ah, bitter was the trial to part
From one so good as you.

You are not forgotten loved one
Nor will you ever be,
As long as life and memory last
We will remember thee.

We miss you now, our hearts are sore,
As time goes we miss you more,
Your loving smile, your gentle face,
No one can fill your vacant place.
